NO FIREWORKS AT COUNCIL JUST STEADY WORK GRIND

Long and Cushing Resume Diplomatic Relations—Trees Are Planted and Many Streets Are Improved

The city fathers met in regular session last night, all being in their places except Councilman Picton. Mayor Garrard presided with his usual grace and dignity, but was noticeably a little rattled on account of the new boy recently arriving at his home.

The first thing in order was the protest on the improvement of Garrard boulevard, formerly Ashland avenue. Representing the Richmond Land and Canal Co., H. W. Werner appeared and objected strenuously to the proposed including of only ten feet each side of the car track, but stated that his company would not protest if the whole street was improved. He stated that as the street had been improved only three years and had been worn out, not by the lot owners, but by the general public traveling to and from the east and west side of the city, the lot owners deemed it but fair that a part of the repaving cost be paid by the city itself. This stand was seconded by Councilman Gerlach. Councilman Lane favored the improvement of the whole street, but not the city paying therefor. Councilman Hartnett moved that the matter go over until next Monday, which motion prevailed.

J. I. Barnamann was granted a jitney license, his application being approved by Chief Walker.

An arc light was asked for at Ohio and Wall by the residents of that section. The petition was referred to the light committee.

A communication was received from the Central Labor Council requesting that the city adopt $3 a day as the minimum wage scale for the workers in the street department. Councilmen Lane and Long favored the minimum wage, but desired it to apply to all city employes. After some argument the city attorney was instructed to draw an amendment to the prevailing ordinance to that effect for action at the next meeting.

1000 SHADE TREES.

Apropo of planting week, a communication was received from Burg Bros. saying that they were now about to plant 1000 ornamental shade trees upon their tract in the eastern section, and asking what if any help might be expected from the city relative to the care and watering of same and protection for them against vandals who had in the past destroyed and stolen many similar trees. The matter was referred to the tree planting commission with a favorable recommendation.

MORE ABOUT GLASS FRONTS.

Leo Persico of the S. P. Hotel and bar at Sixteenth and Macdonald, submitted for the council's consideration the first plans for a saloon glass front in accordance with the new ordinance recently passed. He stated that he was in favor of that glass front ordinance and any other regulation which the people and the council should see fit to impose and was not in sympathy with the movement on the part of the saloon men of the city to initiate an election against the same. The plan was accepted.

The Board of Underwriters of San Francisco presented a communication through Fire Chief Lamoine, calling attention to violations of the rules in relation to buildings in the fire limits. He stated emphatically that no reduction of insurance rates could be obtained for Richmond if any other than brick buildings were allowed to be erected in such limits. As an instance a new corrugated iron building back of the Tivoli cafe was cited, whereupon Chief Lemoin and Building Inspector Wierda reported that the same had been ordered torn down.

NINETY BLOCKS OF TREES.

The tree planting commission submitted an excellent report as to the trees to be planted along ninety city blocks extending from Barret avenue to the Santa Fe railroad north and south and from First to Twenty-third street east and west, giving the kind of trees for each street and avenue, its cost, etc., and

MILLION-DOLLAR RAIN DRENCHES THE STATE

Rain which began to fall yesterday afternoon was general throughout the state at noon yesterday. California was declared to be in the grip of the storm king.

Heaviest rain was recorded in the Sacramento valley, where the Sacramento river was said to have risen two inches over night. No alarm, however, is felt unless the downpour increases and continues for a number of days. In the San Joaquin valley only light rains were recorded, but a storm is said to be sweeping over Arizona and the south and will soon envelope the valley.

Fifteen inches of snow fell during the night at Truckee and Summit, and Nevada reports a general snow storm.

A million-dollar rainfall is the way farmers throughout California characterized the downpour which soaked all sections of the state during the night. The moisture was a godsend to early crops which had begun to be seriously affected by the long drought. The weather forecaster predicts, too, that the rain will continue.

RICHMOND ADVERTISED IN HEALTH BULLETIN

In the current issue of the monthly bulletin of the California State Board of Health, one of the widest circulated official journals in the West, Richmond receives a lot of free advertising through the efforts of Health Officer Blake of this city.

Mention is made of the house inspection ordinance, which is commended for its value in tuberculosis control, and the ordinance providing parents with a certificate of the birth of a child, both of which were originated by Dr. Blake. Health Officer Blake was one of the comparatively few in California who got on the state board's roll of honor with a perfect score for 1916, reporting to the state board weekly.

HE WORE 'EM.

When R. W. Byrn, the real estate man, got that suit of overalls he won at the Smith & Crane "dressed chicken" contest for guessing the nearest to the number of grains of corn the birds would eat, he was dared to put the suit on and wear it down town. He did it, and he looked so dressed up that his wife didn't know him.

At Pythian Castle this evening the Pythian Sisters will hold a whist party.

GENERAL FUNSTON DROPPED DEAD

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 19.—General Frederick Funston, while romping with a child in the lobby of the St. Anthony Hotel here, just after he had eaten dinner this evening, dropped dead. Heart trouble due to acute indigestion was the cause. He was 51 years of age.

ELECTROLIERS ON MACDONALD AVENUE

Macdonald avenue is to be lighted by electroliers, if plans formulated by the Merchants' Association last night are carried out. The main thoroughfare of Richmond is to be a "path of gold" on much the same plan as Market street, San Francisco.

At the present time Macdonald avenue is anything but brilliantly lighted, and realizing that plenty of light adds greatly to the appearance of a business street, the merchants propose to look into the matter of having the city install electroliers.

It is pointed out that the cost of this form of lighting is no greater than the present inadequate system of arc lights, as incandescent lights are used. Nor is the cost of the first installation of the system great.

At any rate, the Merchants' Association proposes to secure data of cost, etc., and to that end has appointed a committee.

The committee having in hand the banquet to be given at the Richmond Club on the 28th reported everything in readiness.

The association is getting out stickers for pay-up week, when a dollar will be started and kept track of in its rounds. Here is the sticker:

Follow the Richmond Merchants' Association Slogan: Help Yourself, Your Merchant and Your Own Home Town.
YOU PAY US,
WE'LL PAY HIM,
HE'LL PAY YOU.

IMPORTANT WORK ON CANAL SUB-DIVISION

The work being done on the canal subdivision by H. C. Cutting is one of the most important pieces of city improvement ever prosecuted in Richmond. The sewering, grading and paving of more than 25,000 feet of streets in the canal subdivision, when completed, will connect the direct lines of traffic between the two sides of Richmond.

While this work is going on, Cutting is in the East, giving his personal attention to the development on Richmond's harbor of a terminal proposition, along the lines of the Bush terminals in New York city, and the people here are waiting for the work to start on this terminal, which will be the beginning of a new era in Richmond's development.

Cutting is keeping in close touch with the rivers and harbors bill before Congress, which includes an appropriation of $423,000 for Richmond's harbor, and he is also taking a great interest in the report from the navy board on the naval base site. Cutting originated the Richmond inner harbor plan.

A big sign has been installed at the tract, reading: "This will be the heart of Richmond."

FIEND ATTACKS RICHMOND GIRL

A search is being made by deputies from the sheriff's office for a fiend who made a heinous attack upon a young Richmond woman Sunday near Ferndale Springs. The young woman's name is withheld from publication to save her embarrassment.

The young lady accompanied Frank Curry of this city in his truck Sunday to the springs, whither he went for mineral water. When the truck became stuck in a manhole, he got out to extricate it, while his companion walked down the road a few rods. As she passed an old building a fellow ran out and tried to embrace and kiss her. She fought him off, scratched him and tore his clothing, and bit his fingers as he put his hand over her mouth to muffle her screams. The fellow finally beat a retreat and the girl ran towards Curry, who, hearing her screams, hastened to her assistance. Armed with a revolver, he made a search of the neighborhood, but the fiend was not located. The attack was reported to the sheriff, but up to a late hour last night no clew had been secured concerning the fugitive.

SALOONS ARE WELCHING.

The saloons appear to have started something they couldn't finish. When they began circulating a petition against the glass front ordinance, the W. C. T. U. and the Welfare League started counter petitions calling for $1000 license, Sunday and early closing. Their petition is being rapidly signed. It is said that now the saloon men are "sorry they spoke" and are willing to capitulate. They will probably make a proposition to the W. C. T. U. to withhold their petition with the promise that the saloon men will not file theirs. They are just a trifle late. The News warned them what would happen.

PAY AS YOU ENTER.

Manager Northey of the Turner & Dahnken Richmond theater has inaugurated a "pay-as-you-enter" system at the theater, all same street car. You just drop your coin into the maw of a machine and pass in. It is a very convenient arrangement for the public and saves standing in line and buying a ticket.

WAR SITUATION IS MORE HOPEFUL IT IS BELIEVED

Work of Preparing for Hostilities Continues Without Letup, However—American Peace Advocates Are Busy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Although unchanged in its dangerous particulars, the German-American situation today was generally regarded by officials as more hopeful than at any time since the diplomatic break two weeks ago.

The situation is such that the United Press can state positively the President has "no present intention of going to Congress to discuss it in any way."

No "overt act" has yet occurred and officials see in recent actions by Germany no apparent change of attitude toward this government.

The purpose of the President is unchanged, however. He does not intend to pause in the work of preparing, merely because there appears to be a material slump in the daily "bags" of U-boats.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The big question in Washington in the German-American situation today shifted from what will President Wilson do?" to "what will the President and Congress do?"

Despite strong pressure by administration leaders at the capitol in the interest of "keeping Congress quiet," it was admitted today the heretofore under-surface rumblings of Bryan followers and pacifists may break out at any time into a veritable storm of debate and discussion of the whole situation.

MUST RELEASE PRISONERS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Peremptory demand for release of the 72 American Yarrowdale prisoners now held in Germany has been sent to the Imperial German government, the state department announced today.

The department announced the demand had been sent Saturday, but would not "at this time" make the text public.

Secretary Lansing, in making announcement that the demand was dispatched secretly Saturday, added that late yesterday the department received word from Berlin, presumably through the Spanish ambassador, that the prisoners "would be released shortly."

LENTEN SERVICES.

The annual lenten service will be inaugurated in the Catholic churches of this city on Wednesday morning with masses at 7 and 9 o'clock. There will be blessing and distribution of ashes at the 9 o'clock mass and for children at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The extra devotional services during lent will be on Wednesday and Friday evenings.

KEEP AFTER 'EM.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—The department of justice will not drop its grand jury proceedings against news print paper manufacturers for alleged violations of the anti-trust laws, even though the manufacturers have agreed to let the federal trade commission determine upon a reasonable price and equitable distribution, it was learned today.

A reduction to between 2 and 3 cents a pound for news print paper, it was learned today, is likely to be the maximum price which the federal trade commission will set, as the arbitrator of prices and distribution of the commodity. Prices recently have gone as high as 5 1-2 and 6 cents in the East, and in many cases some small publishers were unable to get print paper at any price. Western prices have reached 9 cents.

SUNK U-BOAT.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—In a running duel at sea between the French line freighter Guayne and a German submarine, the U-boat was sunk, officers of the crew reported today on their arrival here from Bordeaux. The submarine, they declared, fired three ineffective shots at the ship and went down when the second shell from the 65 millimeter gun on the Guayne struck her squarely.

FINE BILL AT I.-D. HOUSE

"Sixteen men on a dead man's chest!
Yo! Ho! And a bottle of rum."

When the pirates were merrily roaring their familiar song they little suspected that the dead man on whose chest they were sitting was none other than their own chieftain. But then, they had not heard of Pauline Frederick then, for they were ignorant souls and did not go to motion picture shows.

But when these same pirates captured a beautiful maiden whom they dragged off to be the favorite of their chief, they little know what disaster they were courting, for the lovely Miss Frederick killed their leader when he attempted to prove himself her lord and master.

Of course this all happened in a motion picture—"The Slave Market"—in which Pauline Frederick is starred by the Famous Players Film Company. It is the Paramount Feature at the Richmond theater Wednesday and Thursday.

A whist party for St. Paul's church will take place at San Pablo this evening in the church parlors. Refreshments will be served and there will be many prizes.

Editorial Comment

A UNION CARD SHOULD MEAN SOMETHING.

The organized labor bodies around this bay should pay more attention to the efficiency and worthiness of the men they are handing out cards to, for there are a lot of boneheads drifting around flashing union cards who do not know straight-up about the trade they attempt to represent.

This hurts organized labor, and should not be allowed. A union card should mean something. It should stand for something, and be a guarantee of something. It should mean not only that the holder is a member of organized labor and upholds the principles of the same, but that he is competent, worthy and efficient. The union should stand back of the card, and make the holder of it live up to what it is supposed to reprecent, or take it away from him.

Being a union printer for thirty years, we claim to know what we are talking about, and just now we are talking union labor, for the good and benefit of union labor. It is not only important to get men to join the union, but it is just as important that no incompetent and unworthy man be allowed to join, or be given a card, for that not only hurts the cause, but is an injustice to the employers.

This sort of thing is allowed to slide along too lax all over the country. We have seen hundreds of Italians and Austrians brought into the mountains of Colorado, taken out to the edge of the town and given one day's instructions in drilling a hole in a rock, and then ground through the miners' union, given cards and sent up to the mines to work at $3.50 per day as competent miners, when they didn't know a mine from a coal cellar. That sort of thing is all wrong.

The cause of this roar is the fact that we have had to discharge four different printers within a month, sent to us by the San Francisco typographical union, two for utter incompetency and two for drunkenness. None of the four should be allowed to carry a union card. The two fired for incompetency would ruin more work and stock in a week than their necks were worth, and no employer on earth could pay them the scale and break even on it.

The union rule requiring so many years' apprenticeship before the worker is made a journeyman should be amended to read—so many years, or UNTIL COMPETENT. Then if at the end of the prescribed time he cannot show that he is competent, make him work under instructions longer, until he is competent, before giving him a card.

Every man should take a pride in his union card, and he should live up to it and what it is supposed to represent. And it should represent character, sobriety, manhood, intelligence, honesty and competency.

The east bay cities claim San Francisco broke the "gentlemen's agreement" entered into relative to the naval base contest. A "gentlemen's agreement," to be effective, should exist only among gentlemen.

It is better to have loved and lost than to have had to pay alimony.

About the only excitement there is in Sacramento now is morning, noon and night.

The statesman that can figure out a high duty upon what we have to sell and free trade on what we purchase, can bust out all the millionaires in a short time after.

Eastern high protectionists, bankers and Wall street sharks who predicted a panic if the Democracy got control of the government cannot understand why it does not show up. It is not going to show up.

As nefarious a brace of trusts as exist on this earth are the tobacco and whisky trusts, but we never hear the men kicking on the outrageous prices they maintain on whisky and tobacco; but oh, how we do howl over the price of food!

Did it ever occur to you that sending money to the big mail order houses is one way to approve of their method of paying $5 a week to thousands of women and girls? Why not cut out such scamps and buy at home, even if it does cost a bit more?

"Shorty" of the street car section says if people would be content to get along on black bread, cheese and "dago red" there would be less howl about the high cost of living, and that is just what they ought to do. Shorty is wise beyond his height, too.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Wanted—A King's Regalia.

All is tears on the Isle of Chance. The managers of the operetta entitled "The Isle of Chance," which is being prepared for presentation by the high school, are tearing their hair in disappointed rage. The cause of these tears and this hair pulling has been brought about by the present war—the king of the Isle of Chance has none of the costly robes without which no king would dare appear before his subjects. German U-boats having recently raided the Isle of Chance in search of gold and finding none of the well hidden treasure, confiscated all the princely robes of the king and departed with them for Germany. Efforts have been made to borrow robes from some of the potentates of Europe having a surplus of purple velvet and ermine, but as the sovereigns in these countries must appear for consultation before their ministers many times daily, they cannot spare any of their ceremonial garb. Efforts to obtain the king's robes from costumers have been met with laughter by said costumers, as all clothing is being hoarded until after the present war, when prices, they say, will advance 500 per cent.

Equal difficulty is confronting the court costumer in his search for a crown. Apparently all the crowns formerly so numerous in the world have been well hidden, for not one can be found. The poor king has tried everything from a Stetson to a boudoir cap, but nothing meets with his approval. It is possible that the Manual Training Department will be called upon to mould an iron crown or carve a wooden one, but a crown the king must have. If you have such a toy among the family heirlooms, dig it up. King Greed wants it for just one little night when he appears with his court from the Isle of Chance at the Lincoln auditorium some time in March.

READ THIS CAREFULLY.

Before you board a car to trade away from home, at least have the foresight to compare prices. You will save money. You are in duty bound to support your local merchants. At least give them the benefit of reading their ads. You will find this week that Elsie & Elsie are selling the latest spring fabrics, just received from the East, in a choice assortment of colors at a price which cannot be beaten anywhere. They have a wonderful display of Imperial crepe dress goods, wool crepes, sport goods in pongee effects, beautiful stripes and large polka dots, also crepe de chine and etamine waists, all styles and colors. They can back up the statement that they have the most complete ladies' underwear department in the city. Why make a foolish trip out of town when such bargains are presented to you right here at home?

Warner's corsets, which are advertised in these columns, are standard goods and the price is universal. Jones & Adkison and Elsie are exclusive agents for Richmond and carry the complete line. Any reason why you should go out of town to get these goods?

SYNOPSIS

Roberta, an orphan, half French, half American, starting for America to stay with an uncle, meets Count de Lasselles commissioned to secure mules for France.

By a mistake, Roberta's uncle believes she is a nephew. Knowing him to be a woman hater, Roberta adopts man's attire.

Her uncle, General Carruthers, informs his supposed nephew that he needs his knowledge of French to straighten out a deal for providing mules for France. The governor's honor is involved in the mule deal.

Roberta pledges her aid and is introduced to Governor Faulkner and to his private secretary, Miss Glendenning.

Mrs. Jeff Whitworth is deep in the mule scheme with her husband and endeavoring to get the governor's signature to the transaction.

The governor gives a dinner to Roberta, who has been made private secretary pro tem. She snatches her wits against Mrs. Whitworth.

Roberta accompanies the governor to the state prison, where he wishes to see a murderer. The latter attacks the governor, and Roberta deflects the blow.

Roberta discovers that the murderer has killed his man in defending a woman. She secures a statement from the woman.

"Great heavens, boy!" exclaimed that Gouverneur Faulkner as he caught the knife from the floor where it had fallen from the hand of the poor man, who had sunk down on the cot, trembling and panting. "Two inches to the left and a little more force and the knife would have stuck in your heart."

"Is it not better my heart than yours, my great Gouverneur Faulkner? And, behold, it is the heart of neither and only a small scratch upon my humble arm, which will not even prevent the driving of that new Cherry car," I answered him as I put that arm behind me and pressed it close in its sleeve of brown cheviot so that there would be no drippings of blood.

CHAPTER X.

To Bear Man and to Save Them.

"I DIDN'T go to hurt the young gentleman nor you either, governor," said the man from the cot as he sobbed and buried his head in his arms. "I was always a good man, and now I"—

"Don't say another word, Timma," interrupted my Gouverneur Faulkner in a voice that was as gentle as that father of state which he had said himself to be to Timms. "Nobody will know of this, for your sake. I was—was baiting you. I know what I want to know now, and you'll not hang on the 16th. The state will fry you again. Call the superintendent, Robert."

"Don't try nothing to hurt Mary, governor. Jest let me hang and I won't never care what"— the poor human began to plead.

"I'll look after Mary—and you too, Timms. I'll see to it that"— my Gouverneur Faulkner was answering the trembling plea for his mercy when the superintendent came in and unlocked the cage.

"Don't let him know of the—accident, youngster," whispered the Gouverneur Faulkner to me, and in a very few minutes we were out of that prison into the cherry car and whirling with great rapidity down the country road with its tall trees upon both sides.

"Stop, Robert," commanded his excellency as we came under a large group of very old trees which made a thick shelter of their green leaves as they leaned together over the stone wall that bordered the side of the road. "Now let me see just what did happen to that arm which came between poor Timms' sharpened case knife and my life. We are out of sight of the prison now. It would have all been up with Timms if that attack upon me had been discovered. Your pluck will have saved Timms, if he's saved, as well as your governor. Here, turn toward me and let me see that arm." And as he spoke my Gouverneur Faulkner put his arm across my shoulder and turned me toward him so that he could put his right hand on the sleeve of that cheviot bag in which was a long slash from the knife and which was now wet with my blood.

"I very much fear my beloved brown cheviot, which I have worn only a few times, is now dead, and how will I find another for my need?" I exclaimed with a great alarm when I saw that that knife had thus devastated my good clothing, of which I had not many and for the procuring of which I was many thousand miles from my good friend and tailor in New York. If I sought another suit in the city of Hayesville might there not be dangers of discoveries in the adjustment there of? "Is it not a vexation?" I asked as the Gouverneur Faulkner attempted to push back that murdered sleeve from my forearm.

"In the language of my friend Buss, you are one sport, Robert. Shell out of that coat immediately. I want to see just how much of a scratch that is and I can't get the sleeve up high enough," commanded my Gouverneur Faulkner. The tone of his voice was the same he had used to me in commanding that I take his mail to his nice lady stenographer, but his face was very white, and his hand that he laid upon the collar of my coat for assisting me to lay it aside trembled with a great degree of violence.

"Indeed, my Gouverneur Faulkner, it is but a scratch, and"—

"Get out of that coat!"

"But"—

"Off with that coat, Robert!" he commanded me, and before I could make resistance my coat was almost completely off me by his aid, and I was obliged to let it slip into his hands. He laid it on the back of the seat behind him, and with hands that were as gentle as those of old Nannette when dealing with one of my injuries of a great number in childhood he rolled up the sleeve of my nice white shirt with the brown strip of coloring in accord with that beloved and regretted cheviot and bared my forearm, which was very strong and white, but which also appeared to me to be dangerously rounded for his gaze. I was glad that arm was covered with a nice gore which had come from the long slit, but which had now well nigh ceased to run from me, so that he could not observe that it was of such a feminine mold.

"Yes, just a deep scratch that I can fix all right myself in my own bathroom when we get back to the mansion in time for dinner with the general, by 7:30, I hope," said my beloved gouverneur as he helped me again to assume the ruined garment of cheviot. "I was born in the mountains of the state of Harpeth, boy, where when one sheds his blood for the life of another that other is said to be under bond to his rescuer, and that means a tie closer than the ordinary one of brother by birth. I acknowledge the bond to you for all time, little brother. Now drive on quickly to the mansion before we are in danger of being late for dinner with the general. It will take me some few minutes to get you out of that shirt and into your dinner coat. I'll send for it, and you can dress with me."

"Oh, no, my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner! I must go immediately to home and there make myself presentable for a dinner that my Buss has arranged for me. That nice black lady, Kizzie, will with joy attend on this scratch upon my arm," I exclaimed, with great alarm for fear that that very strong mind of my gouverneur would command me to make my toilet in his company in the mansion. "Please do not command me that I shall not so do."

STREET CAR RAG CHEWING.

The ordinance regulating smoking and throwing rubbish on the floors of street cars came up for second reading and brought much discussion from councilmen and a well-filled audience. The ordinance provides that smoking must be confined to the front and rear platforms and a $500 fine or imprisonment for violation is included. The building trades council presented a communication against the passage of the ordinance unless it be amended to except the morning and evening cars used almost exclusively by the oil workers.

I. W. Hulse, representing Standard Oil workers, objected strenuously to the ordinance, stating that it was a slam on the working man and ought not to pass. Local Supt. C. F. Donnelly of the traction company asked that the ordinance be passed, and there was much discussion pro and con from a number of parties. It was suggested that certain cars in the morning and evening be exempted, but this did not prevail. The ordinance as drafted passed on second reading with Councilmen Long and Hartnett voting no.

A resolution was adopted upon the issuing of street improvement bonds on San Pablo avenue in the amount of $24,546. About $10,000 has been paid on these assessments and the balance is past due. Upon this the mayor voted no.

The same procedure was had on 3rd street improvement bonds in the amount of $28,302, Mayor Garrard voting no.

The matter of the change of assessment upon street improvements as to the plaza on the west side was again up for discussion and the re-assessment arranged by Supt. of Streets Chapman was adopted.

G. W. Cushing was granted a 30-days' extension on the work he is doing on 47th street.

A long line of routine business was transacted relative to street assessments. An ordinance relative to tearing up streets by service corporations, etc., was gone into at length and lasted up to 11:30 o'clock, when adjournment was taken.

HOWARD-ROYALL NUPTIALS.

In the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives, Era Howard and Miss Lucille Royall were married Sunday evening at Calvary Baptist church by Rev. Paul Bassett. Mrs. Rita Dooling was maid of honor, while the Misses Marie Beckman, Frankie Miller and Minnie Reid were bridesmaids.

Reginal Royall, brother of the bride, was best man and Arthur Murphy, Carl Sisson and Fred Sprou were the ushers.

Little Sheia Rita Graeber was flower girl and looked very pretty in her pink gown, and carrying a huge bouquet.

A reception followed the wedding at the home of Mrs. G. M. Graeber, 254 Fourth street, with Mrs. A. B. Pownell, mother of the bride, as hostess.

The bride is a fascinating brunette. She was attired in an elegant wedding gown of pink silk and white tulle. The maid of honor and the bridesmaids were attired in pink.

Never in the history of Richmond have the local merchants carried such splendid stocks in all lines as they are carrying at the present time.

The grocers, the butchers, the furniture men, the clothing and dry-goods men, druggists, jewelers, and, in fact, dealers in all lines, have begun to realize that being in competition with big dealers within half an hour of Richmond, they must carry bigger stocks and in greater variety. The result is that they are augmenting their stocks of goods in the matter of both quantity and quality, and they are reaping their rewards in the shape of more extensive home trading.

The News is particularly gratified at this, as this paper has advocated that course and talked home trading

LET MAYERS DO IT.

Mayers' American Cleaning and Dyeing establishment at 1116 Macdonald avenue is so well known in Richmond for many years past that it is probably needless to say that it is the leader in this line of business in this city. If you want your old suit to be made to look like new, let Mayers do it. That's his business and he knows how. Incidentally, he doesn't charge but very little.
